Outsourcing your IT services to Novell takes the stress out of IT management. Our experienced, disciplined professionals will use best practices and their extensive expertise to help you maintain total control over your IT environment and eliminate downtime.

Systems and Application Management Services

How much time and money do you spend on change and configuration management? What do you lose when your systems go down? Are you confident that you have all the latest updates and patches installed? Novell IT Services can manage your systems and applications and seamlessly integrate with your helpdesk, change control process and trouble ticket system. We'll implement best practices to keep your applications running and resolve issues quickly and efficiently. We are so certain Novell will deliver cost-effective services that we'll guarantee uptime.

System Availability

Why lose productivity and revenue to downtime? Novell can improve system availability by managing your servers with cost-effective expertise that is second to none. You'll be able to make better business decisions with regular reports that summarize the trends of your systems. And with our uptime guarantees, you can be assured that your systems will remain available—even under the most demanding workloads.

System Change and Configuration Management

Your system is constantly evolving, as it must. But while change can be good, it can also be catastrophic. You must keep on top of system and configuration updates—and Novell can make this quick, safe and cost effective. Not only do we monitor your operating systems and application-configuration files, but with this data we proactively fine tune and optimize your environment to constantly improve your systems' performance.

System and Application Patching

Keeping systems and applications up to date is time consuming. And if you don't, you run the risk of systems failing and miss out on the latest features. That's where Novell comes in. We can apply any necessary patches to your company's applications while adhering to both your specifications and change-management processes. You'll have the peace of mind and increased uptime that are the hallmarks of a highly efficient environment.

System Monitoring

Constant monitoring of your systems can prevent many problems. When issues do arise, the resolution can begin before users start calling the helpdesk. Turn monitoring over to Novell. We watch your systems and follow the guidelines you set—hours of coverage, technologies to monitor, notification, escalation procedures and more. Our experienced team will perform daily health checks, detecting potential issues and resolving them before users are interrupted or distracted.

System Forecasting and Optimization

The utilization of real-time data on usage trends is a proven way to reduce downtime. You'll also cut costs when you purchase or upgrade only the system resources your data says you actually need. To improve system compatibility and to gain insight into your usage trends, Novell IT Services provides you with monthly reports, and works with you to evaluate the results to predict your future needs.
