

Novell® On-demand Training: Right Information. Right Time. Right Place.

You need quality training to make the most of your Novell® investments. However, it can be tough to find the time and money for live training in the face of shrinking budgets, rising travel costs and tough economic times.

Quality On-demand Training from Novell

At Novell, we recognize training is an important component in maintaining a competitive advantage. Training employees is no longer optional; if your employees aren't keeping up with rapidly changing technological trends, your entire business could feel the consequences. However, we also realize it is difficult to find the budget and time necessary to complete training. You need training that can adapt to your company's individual needs. That's why Novell now offers on-demand training.

On-demand training content is available in a convenient and affordable, online environment and provides many business benefits. For one, courses are available online and anywhere you have access to a Web browser, which means there is no need to travel. And with 24x7 access to your training, you can learn on your own timeline, while you continue to work. Courses are also modular, which means you can stop and start at your convenience. In addition, when you do need to stop, your stopping point in the course is autosaved, so you can find it easily the next time you're ready to work on the course. And finally, because our courses are modular, if you only need a certain piece of information, you can simply search within the course for the topic you want to learn more about and start learning there.

With a flexible and affordable subscription, Novell on-demand training delivers high-quality training content at a low cost. That quality is something Novell prides itself in. Our on-demand training offers a rich, interactive and complete online learning environment that includes expert instructors, video demonstration and assessments. And, with more than 100 current courses for administrators, technical experts and end users, Novell provides a diverse and ever-growing library that covers the spectrum of Novell solutions. In short, Novell on-demand training courses provide high value at an unbeatable cost.

and Identity and Security. Novell on-demand training includes four types of courses:

First Look Courses

These lightweight training offerings cover the fundamentals of installation, basic configuration and new features of a product. This training also prepares you to continue on a learning path toward other Novell courseware and certifications.

Support Quick Fix Training

These short training modules address a wide range of topics such as common support issues, migrations, troubleshooting and advanced coverage of specific product features or functionality.

Administrator-level Training Courses

Once you have the product installed and configured, you will need to know how to use it productively in your environment. Administrator-level training courses are the next step in your learning path—teaching the basic, day-to-day operation of the product.

Engineer-level Training Courses

Engineer-level on-demand courses cover advanced topics such as deployment, troubleshooting and specialty topics requiring an in-depth understanding of the product.

How to Get On-demand Training

On-demand First Look modules are currently available to you as part of your product maintenance agreements or technical subscriptions. Novell has an extensive library of on-demand training courses available for direct purchase. You can purchase a yearly subscription that includes the Full Library. This subscription gives you access to every course available on the on-demand online system. This license is good for one individual for one year for the low cost of only US$1,795. Novell also offers you a Solution Library subscription. This subscription gives you access to the Data Center, Identity & Security or End-User Computing Library for only US$1,295. On-demand training may be purchased through a Novell sales representative, a Novell Partner or directly online at: <https://secure-www.novell.com/services/order/>
