

Novell® GroupWise®

Novell® GroupWise® 2012 gives you a truly “plugged in” collaborative work environment that tackles information overload, mobilizes your productivity, transforms your contacts into valuable business currency, and lets you collaborate and interact across virtual and organizational boundaries.

Smarter, Faster and Better Collaboration

Novell GroupWise 2012, the first in the line-up of more frequent and customer-focused Novell releases, delivers a powerful set of collaborative tools with a highly dynamic and connected work environment that enhances the way you work and interact.

Centralized Information Visibility

You lose a lot of time moving back and forth between e-mail, IM, task management systems, and other online collaboration systems just to stay connected and get the information you need. The GroupWise Home View addresses this time drain, giving you a personal productivity dashboard that consolidates all that information into a single view that can be customized to your unique way of working.

And new to GroupWise 2012, Skype presence, SMS and click-to-call integrations make it even easier to stay connected from within GroupWise. Additional integrations with Novell Vibe™ have been added that bring more social collaboration and team productivity capabilities to your familiar GroupWise environment. Also, the new “relevance” focus in GroupWise makes your most-used contacts and information even easier to find. All of these capabilities combine to enable you to interact, innovate and act more effectively than ever before.

Workload Overload under Control

Novell GroupWise lets you turn your inbox into an effective way of managing business commitments so you can give more attention to what’s urgent, remember to follow up on requests and prioritize issues appropriately. With a single click you can sort and view e-mails within a discussion thread, and then easily see the entire thread history to fill in appropriate context. When you receive an attachment you need to modify, you can include it in your reply without saving it and browsing to reattach it first. You can search the recipients of messages you’ve sent or received—even members of a distribution list. And you can quickly and easily share a complete folder tree (with all its nested folders) with other users.

Simplified Cross-organization Calendaring

Too much time and effort is wasted with back and forth e-mails or phone calls when scheduling meetings that include participants from different organizations. Novell GroupWise simplifies cross-organization calendaring, even for organizations that use different messaging tools. It lets you subscribe to external calendars and publish your own calendar and free/busy information to external colleagues, so all participants can easily see and agree upon available meeting times.

To further reduce scheduling headaches, as well as calendar clutter, Novell GroupWise 2012 introduces intuitive graphical busy searches, multi-user calendars with proxy account overlays, simplified recurring appointment creation and minimized redistribution of modified appointments.

Business Contact Currency

The powerful contact management capabilities in Novell GroupWise let you readily access connections, conversation history and other important context that can improve your interactions and let you leverage your contact information to its full potential. It lets you track people, histories, action items, connections and more from within your GroupWise work environment. Most importantly, GroupWise lets you effectively create, manage and nurture contacts in a way that transforms them from static data into valuable business currency.

Mobilize Your Data and Productivity

Novell GroupWise WebAccess gives remote and mobile users access to their e-mail and schedules from any location that has an Internet connection. And a complete refresh of the WebAccess interface in GroupWise 2012 lets you be more productive than ever with recurring appointment creation, graphical busy-search, column sorting, consistent cross-client signatures, personal contact photos and group management capabilities.

Further mobilizing user productivity, Novell Data Synchronizer lets you synchronize e-mails, schedules, contacts, notes and tasks between GroupWise and ActiveSync-enabled mobile devices, and BlackBerry* devices continue to be supported through Research In Motion's BlackBerry Enterprise Server for Novell GroupWise. Finally, new iPad support in GroupWise itself lets you access your GroupWise post office directly from your iPad to check and create new messages, appointments, tasks and more.

Work and Interact the Way You Want

Unlike other collaboration solutions that straight-jacket your productivity, Novell GroupWise 2012 lets you work the way you want to work. From more productive interactions and greater mobility to efficient task management, hassle-free scheduling and simplified information sharing, Novell GroupWise 2012 makes it easier than ever to work, collaborate and get things done.
